GENERAL DATA

Brief description

The course aims to provide students with sufficient theoretical knowledge relating to the part of the tax system directly linked to actions companies carry out to enable them to perform practical analysis of the consequences of such actions in terms of fiscal cost. The aim is to optimise this process, after assessing the different alternatives for action that companies are presented with. The subject also shows a marked bias towards the internationalisation processes in which the company is immersed.

Teaching methods

The course will have a theoretical base component, which will then allow the annual corporate tax settlement to be resolved, with practical cases along the lines of those developed according to companies' tax reality.

Learning outcomes

• To acquire the habit of consulting and interpreting the direct sources of taxation, i.e. the tax regulations (laws, regulations, etc.) in force at any given time.

• To be able to quantify the fiscal impact that a company must bear as a consequence of its business activity being successful. To quantify business operations' profitability in terms of available results, which is essential for reporting to shareholders or the company's supervisory bodies.

• To understand the legal form of foreign investments that companies can take, assessing the tax cost of the different alternatives.

• To understand the problems of international double taxation that every company suffers when its activities go beyond the borders of its own country, given the known expansive nature that the tax authorities of the different States tend to exhibit.

• To understand and evaluate the fiscal conditioning factors of international trade in goods, both with third countries and with the European Union; and in services, in the different forms in which this manifests itself.

• To have the ability to settle the annual corporate tax that companies have to face in a practical way, being able to explain this to both shareholders and tax authorities.

EVALUATION

Evaluation system

The final exam will consist of a 25-question multiple-choice test (all combinations of correct answers: all, one or more, or none correct). The questions must demonstrate theoretical knowledge of the subject and its practical application for assessing corporate income tax and, in particular, for international aspects.

For each question the minimum grade shall be zero (no negative grades).

Depending on class attendance, the attitude and amount of attention paid in class and the participation of each student, both in terms of the number of interventions and, above all, their relevance, the final grade achieved may be increased or decreased by 10%, depending on the merits or demerits accumulated by the participants, at the lecturer's discretion. The indicated maximum increase of 10% may also be obtained from other specific activities carried out in class.

In the second and subsequent exam sessions, the grade will depend on the tests that will be determined by the teachers (multiple-choice test, essay, oral exam, mixed or assignments) and communicated to the students sufficiently in advance.
